

The last place on earth you would look for soul-shaking news about education is in that reporter of stock-and-bond quotations — the Wall Street Journal.

And yet, on June 11 George Shea wrote in his The Outlook column a paragraph that will both amaze and disturb every thinking citizen in the land. Said the WSJ columnist:

"Professional educators say that the number of people being taught in night schools and other centers established by American industry is approaching that served by the high school and college educational system itself. American industry has conceived the novel idea that the best way to make sure of having enough well trained people is to pay them to get educated."

Which suggests the paradox that this is a topsy-turvy world in which students play while adults go to school.

The failure of some to get a proper education in their youth and remedying it with night-school in their later years is not a new discovery, but the disclosure that this "retread" schooling now serves an enrollment approaching that of the total free education system of America turns an investigative eye on the tax-supported institution.

Perhaps the fault is lack of discipline.

The public school approach may have neglected to emphasize that old proverb about there being no royal road to learning.

But the disclosure will have its effect. The young fellow (or lady) who has been counting on chore's end with graduation may dig in more earnestly — now that he has learned he may face endless years of going to school as paid and supposedly carefree adult.

Wind, Rain Storms Hit Arkansas

By NITED PRESS

High winds, lightning and sporadic thunderstorms pummeled Little Rock and a stretch of East Arkansas yesterday. The main targets seemed to be power and telephone lines.

Scattered storms, which hit Little Rock with winds up to 70 miles an hour, made their mark along a line from the capital city to Memphis. Points north of the weather line reported extremely cloudy skies and damaging winds.

An estimated $25,000 to $30,000 damage was reported at the Southwest Manufacturing Company plant in Little Rock. B. C. Terry, secretary of the company which manufactures Arkansas Traveler boats, said about 700 feet of storage sheds were blown down. In the same area, two light planes were damaged at Adams Municipal airport.

Wind damages to telephone and power company lines were reported at Grady and McRae in White county.

Also in Little Rock, lightning struck two downtown structures, the Union Life and Rector buildings. The police department said no fires or personal injuries were reported, but that bricks and debris were scattered in the streets in front of the buildings.

Arkansas Power and Light company officials said it was the most severe electrical storm they could remember. Power failure in Little Rock centered in the Capitol area, where the Missouri Pacific Hospital, Missouri Pacific railroad station, a bakery and a large apartment building were without service for more than five hours.

A portable power unit from the city fire department served the hospital during the failure. The department also was called upon to supply its resuscitator for a polio patient, Steve Spearman, 25, of Hot Springs, while power was out. An emergency power unit also failed at a Little Rock nursing home.

Twenty-six power company crews from Little Rock and extra crews from Cabot, Bauxite and Conway worked through the night to restore service to the thousands of Greater Little Rock residents who were without power.

Two electrical storms hit Lepanto within an hour, depositing more than two inches of rain. Heavy rains also fell at Crystal Valley, England and Lonoke.

Critical Stage in Talks About Steel Contract

move into a critical stage today in a contract battle that could shut down the nation's steel industry at midnight Saturday.

The industry's BMIG Three firms and the United Steelworkers of America have both hinted they may be ready to modify their original stands. No official public change in position has developed, however.

The union has authorized a strike of 650,000 steelworkers at midnight Saturday when the present contract dies. A new agreement would cancel the strike plan.

Some steel mills plan to start banking their furnaces tonight in preparation for the possible strike. The rest are due to follow tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the union yesterday summoned its Wage Policy Committee and International Executive Board for meetings here Friday. The meetings "will be held for the purpose of reporting on the status of steel negotiations at that time," the union said.

Showdown on Pensions Is Near in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House held hopes for a showdown vote today on bigger pensions to veterans with a sponsor claiming that a toned-down version has a "good chance" for passage.

The optimism came from Rep. W. J. Bryan Dunn (D-SC), sponsor of a proposal to trim the proposed monthly pension rate. His measure, differing from one approved by the House Veterans Committee, has the support of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Backers of still a third plan—the creation of Chairman Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.), which provides mainly aid to disabled veterans—conceded privately the odds were against them as the House braced for a decision on the politically hot legislation.

But Teague indicated he may have a "surprise" which could influence the fluid, election-year parliamentary situation. He would not specify in an interview what he had in mind.

Defense Starts Case at Texarkana

TEXARKANA (AP) — Defense testimony started today in the trial of four young Negroes for first degree murder in the slaying of a 76-year-old M. R. Hamm during a 19 robbery last month.

The defendants are Willie H. Byrd, 23; James Moore, 18; Roger Boone, 24, and James Boyd, 19, all of the nearby Mandeville community.

They are accused of beating Hamm to death and leaving his body in a secluded spot.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Tillman Johnson yesterday testified that Moore and the other defendants related that Moore struck Hamm several times with a club.

The Natives of Trinidad Have a Sure Cure for Excess Weight, They Just 'Libo' It Away

By HAL BOYLE
TRINIDAD, B. W. I. (AP) — The natives here have a sure cure for excess weight. They just limbo it away.

The limbo should soon be sweeping the United States. I'll guarantee that any girl who practices the limbo for six weeks will have a wasteline as supple as a fishing worm. Either that or she'll be in the hospital with a syphilized doctor murmuring, "Madam, how did you ever get yourself tied up like a pretzel?"

What is the limbo? It is an ancient African dance resembling the high jump. But instead of leaping over the crossbar, you dance under it, each time lowering the crossbar nearer to the floor. You wear nothing but

Anti-Stalin Deal Has Hurt Russia — Dulles

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that Russia's anti-Stalin campaign has thrown international Communism into "a state of perplexity" and has greatly weakened Moscow's control of foreign Communist parties.

He declared, "international Communism is in a state of perplexity and internal odds because certain basic truths have caught up with it."

Dulles said these truths are (1) Communism has "great difficulty" in being effective in a cold war without the "brutal terrorism" of the Stalin era and (2) Iron-fisted rule will not be tolerated forever unless it produces a string of victories.

Dulles said there have been no recent victories.

He said the recent anti-Stalin speech by Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev has touched off a wave of discontent and dissatisfaction in the Communist world.

Dulles said this confronts international Communism with an almost impossible dilemma.

The revolt against the way Josef Stalin controlled the Communist world doesn't mean there won't continue to be an affinity between Moscow and other Communist parties. But he said the degree of control has been greatly weakened and it will be difficult for Russia's new leaders to regain this control unless free world loses its unity and vigor.

11 Airmen Die When Plane Explodes

ROSSELL, N. M. (AP) — Bursting into flame just seconds after take-off, a four-engine Air Force refueling tanker crashed and exploded last night, carrying 11 men to a fiery death.

The Boeing KC97 was loaded with highly inflammable fuel for a jet bomber refueling above southeastern New Mexico. It was based at nearby Walker Air Force Base.

Workers in the Walker tower said the plane took off "in good shape" at 6:50 p. m.

A few minutes later, the tower crew reported to base officials, the plane "appeared to burst into flames. It was too far away to tell whether the fire was in the engines or in the fuselage."

About 10 miles south of the base, the giant tanker, one of the Air Force's most modern refueling aircrafts banked off, spun to the ground in an open field and exploded.

Magnolia Woman Talks to Kiwanians

Mrs. Mary K. Wyrick of Magnolia, who two weeks ago received national publicity in Look Magazine, was the principal speaker Tuesday before Hope Kiwanis club at Hotel Barlow.

"In later years, the Magnolia city council placed my name in the records as official hostess of Magnolia of which I am very proud," the speaker related.

She then told of the work of the New Comers Club, with the principal function being "Operation Hospitality." She was accompanied to Hope by Mrs. Riddell of Magnolia.

House Studies Billion Increase to Air Force

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said today that before he advises the House whether to accept nearly an extra billion dollars for the Air Force he wants to check on whether the Pentagon will use it.

The Senate, on a 48-40 vote, decided yesterday that President Eisenhower had not budgeted enough money to build up U. S. air power in the race with Russia. It approved an extra $912,625,000 for the coming 12 months. There was disagreement as to whether it would be spent, or could be spent, wisely.

The $5-billion dollar armed forces money bill then was passed on a 88-0 roll call, sending it to conference with the House, which earlier voted about 3½ billions.

Mahon, as chairman of an Appropriations subcommittee which handled the measure, will head House conferees who will meet with representatives of the Senate to hammer out a compromise.

He said in an interview he is "very sympathetic to increased airpower" and added: "But I want to talk with the defense people first. I want to find out if they need and will use the additional funds."

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) conceded during debate that the added funds may not be spent by Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson. Wilson has said the extra billion isn't needed but that Congress finally approves it, he will take another look.

AP&L Told to Lower Rates by the PSC

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Power & Light Co., will lower its rates back to approximately the level of two years ago beginning July 1.

And the company soon will start refunding some 9 million dollars in "excess" charges and interest to around 275,000 electric users.

Both the reduced rates and the refunds followed an unsuccessful attempt by AP&L to get an increase in its permanent rates.

In the spring of 1954, AP&L filed a schedule of increased rates with the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

The commission suspended the increase and the company put the boost into effect under a bond guaranteeing refunds if any should be ordered.

On final hearing the commission turned down the increase. The company kept collecting it under the bond pending action by the Arkansas Supreme Court, which recently upheld the PSC.

Chotiner to Let Probers Have Data

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today California Atty. Murry M. Chotiner has agreed to hand over to the Senate Investigators subcommittee Friday documents dealing with his law practice.

Chotiner has denounced as a "political fishing expedition" the group's inquiry into his contacts with government agencies in behalf of clients. Chotiner has insisted they were proper and that he never sought to use political influence.

A widely known figure in California politics, Chotiner managed Vice President Nixon's 1952 campaign. He also has been active in campaigns for others.

The subcommittee, which McClellan heads, has been looking into Chotiner's affairs since his name cropped up as former counsel to some clothing manufacturers the subcommittee is investigating.

George Warns Against Cuts in Military Aid

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga.) cautioned the Senate today against liquidating "the military strength of the free world" if American children are to "avoid the horrors of another war."

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, led the administration's fight to pass a $4,502,000,000 foreign aid bill, including $2,600,000,000 for military aid abroad.

In a speech prepared for the opening of Senate debate on the controversial measure, George told colleagues, some of whom are advocating cuts twice the $1,100,000,000 reduction voted by the House:

"I do not believe that war is inevitable. Indeed, there is a chance that conditions may have so changed in the past year that our children may be able to avoid the horrors of another war."

"But they will not be able to avoid that danger if we begin in this bill to liquidate the military strength of the free world. We have so built and maintained our joint defenses that potential aggressors have been put on notice that Soviet aggression cannot lead to victory."

"In good time we may be able to reduce the size of our military assistance program, but I doubt the wisdom of such a move this year."

The measure George asked the Senate to approve would authorize 600 million dollars more for military assistance abroad in the next 12 months than the House voted, but 400 millions less than President Eisenhower's money will be voted later.

The 76-year-old George, who will retire from the Senate in January 1957, has been Eisenhower's ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, spoke against a background of growing agitation within both parties for cutting overseas spending.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas requested a final vote tomorrow night or Friday.

Taxes on Tires and Gas Go Up on July 1

By VINCENT J. BURKE
WASHINGTON (UP) — If you need a new set of tires for your automobile, you can save about $3.00 in taxes by buying them before midnight Saturday.

On Sunday the federal government will slap higher taxes on tires, gasoline, diesel fuel, trucks, buses and truck-trailers.

The increased taxes are included in a bill which President Eisenhower is certain to sign later this week. The bill will put into effect the biggest construction program in history to modernize the nation's highways. The higher taxes on motorists and truckers are to help pay for it.

The House and Senate completed congressional action on the measure yesterday.

Here is how the new taxes will affect motorists and truckers:

Tires: The federal tax will jump from five to eight cents a pound. This means a tax increase of four cents a tire on the tubelast ones with which new popular make passenger cars now come equipped. Thus it will cost $3.70 more in taxes to produce a new automobile with a spare tire.

The tax on old-tire tires, with tubes, of the same popular size will go up only 65 cents a tire, since they weigh less. The tax will go up much more on big heavy truck tires. Consumers will be hit immediately because retailers and wholesalers must pay the tax on their July 1 inventory.

Gasoline: The tax jumps from two cents to three cents a gallon. Some service stations may not boost gasoline prices immediately. Gasoline delivered to service stations by midnight Saturday will be exempt.

If it will be up to each service station operator to decide when to hike his prices. Some big stations in cities can store only two or three day supply. Others can hold a week's supply. Some rural stations with little business need only bi-monthly deliveries.

Diesel Fuel: The tax jumps from two cents to three cents a gallon. Some service stations may not boost gasoline prices immediately. Gasoline delivered to service stations by midnight Saturday will be exempt.

If it will be up to each service station operator to decide when to hike his prices. Some big stations in cities can store only two or three day supply. Others can hold a week's supply. Some rural stations with little business need only bi-monthly deliveries.

Missiles Can Be Better Tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has two strategic guided missiles which can be tried out more fully now that the U. S. test-range has been extended to stretch 5,000 miles out into the Atlantic.

Such an extension was formally agreed to late yesterday by the United States and Great Britain. British approval was required because the range starting in Florida skirts several British islands and because the new terminal point is British-controlled Ascension Island.

Ascension lies almost midway between South America and Africa.

The two American missiles are the Snark and Navaho, airbreathing weapons which have been tested at less than maximum range in flights from Patrick Air Force Base on the east coast of Florida.

Until the new agreement with Britain, the range extended only about 1,200 miles. Snark has been flown at least once for about 2,000 miles, having been sent southeastward along the range, then turned around and guided back to Florida.

Texas had about 10 million visitors in 1955.

New Metal Made From Ammonia

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — New kinds of metals made out of hydrogen or ammonia will become a reality soon, a group of scientists who deal in very high temperatures was told today.

Other strange substances heretofore unheard of probably can be recovered from regions many miles below the earth's surface, said one investigator.

Some of these substances of the future may help researchers to lick the problem of making containers for the million-degree heat of atomic energy.

Atomic power research at present is hampered by a lack of containers. The toughest metals melt at temperatures under 6,000 degrees. Ceramic materials, made mostly of sand and metallic oxides, tolerate heat fairly well but are too brittle for practical use. Mixtures of metals, and ceramics, called cermets, have been tried but have not worked out well.

Ashmore May Come Back to Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (Special) — Reports were current here today that Harry S. Ashmore is returning to his post as executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette.

Ashmore took a leave of absence last October to become a public relations adviser to Democratic Presidential Candidate Adlai Stevenson.

Asked about the reports, Hugh Patterson, publisher of the Gazette, said "I had rather wait to make a statement on that."

Giving the report some basis of as day.

When the trouble finally was corrected, the management gave free passes for another ride through the darkened tunnel for the couples whose romancing was interrupted.

authenticity was a recent exchange of correspondence between The Arkansas Recorder, a weekly governmental news digest published here, and Ashmore's office in Chicago.

The Recorder, which persistently took issue with Ashmore's editorial views during his tenure as executive editor of the Gazette, recently wrote Ashmore inviting him to participate in a series of television programs sponsored by the news digest. A reply from Ashmore's secretary, according to the Recorder, said Ashmore was out of the city, but expected to be in Arkansas during the month of July.

DOROTHY DIX

Truly Happy Family Crush on Teacher

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Would you like to read a letter with no problem? For a change, I thought you might, and perhaps my experiences will help some other mother.

I have six children — three girls and three boys. My husband is a factory worker, we both work very hard — we have to — and have great happiness with our wonderful family. We brought the children up with principles we lived by and they are following the example set for them. They aren't lied down; they come and go as they please but are never unreasonable. My oldest girl, 20, is a nurse, another is a secretary, the rest are in school. They work after school. I can honestly say not one has ever given us a word of disrespect, a worried moment or been unwilling to co-operate.

I think a major trouble with young people is that their parents insist on running their lives. We don't. My husband and I got married when we chose (I was 30), married people of our own choice, elected our own work, and I think my youngsters have the right to do the same. Advice we are always ready to give when asked; orders we hold back.

We have a wonderful relationship with both sets of in-laws, my husband and I conduct our small arguments or disagreements in privacy, he has his work outside the house (we live on a farm), I have mine inside; rarely do we tackle the other's chores. The girls help me, the boys help their father. I'm never bored or lonely. Neither one of us wants rights out — in fact, by nightfall we're too tired to worry about going out. Besides, the family is more fun than a show.

I believe more children are driven into too-early marriages by nosy parents, or interfering ones, than by anything else. Our thought is: Please learn to let children run their own lives. It's surprising what a good job they can do.

DEAR NELL: I am very thankful to say that your family life isn't at all uncommon — I get many problem letters, but experience shows me that the happy, well-adjusted family is still in the majority.

You have a wonderful sense of proportion, a deep security in the love of your husband and children, and consequent confidence that gives your youngsters the assurance of being trusted. That knowledge is one of the most important things that can be passed on to children. Your's know they are trusted, they have responsibilities, they have faith — in each other and in their parents. I doubt if they'll ever disappoint you.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I've just completed my freshman year in high school, and ever since September I have had a crush on my French teacher. Of course he's much older than I, and married. The girls in my room know I'm crazy about him and I guess he knows it, too. He'll be my teacher next year. I can't get at all interested in boys of my own age group. Will I get over this crush.

DEAR ERMINIE: Your recovery is as certain as the changing of season. Remember last year it was probably Stewart Granger, this summer it will be Rock Hudson and next year it will be a cute boy you'll meet at the beach. If teacher knows, he's probably amused and has been through the bar, however, the dancer has no energy for anything except his own strained contortions. Oddly enough, despite its seeming monotony, the dance holds a tense interest for spectators.

"The limbo is an old folk dance that came over with the slaves, probably in the 17th century," said Charles S. Espinet, local newspaper editor who is an authority on island customs. "No one knows the origin of the name."

In 1844 Edric Conner, a Trinidad-born singer and stage and screen star, revived the dance. Soon it became a popular diversion among society figures here.

American airmen even adopted it as a physical training exercise, and it is now being boomed as a tourist attraction.

There are perhaps a hundred professional limbo dancers in the West Indies, of whom a dozen are rated as first class.

The record is held by a woman, Ruth Henry of Antigua, who danced under a crossbar only 8 inches from the floor. The most famous limbo artists, however, is "Stretch" Wilcox, who is six feet three and has gone under a bar at 10 inches. He has the widest following because he mixes comedy with his gyrations.

Moneywise, the best of limbo dancers at present hardly threatens to break into the Fred Astaire class. They have no difficulty staying marvelously slim. They don't earn enough to eat themselves out of shape.

A folklore scholar here estimated that ranking limbo dancers in the best Trinidad night clubs earn less than $30 a week take-home pay.

To a visitor, however, limbo dancing holds some wonderful possibilities as an export to the United States. Not just to thin down our overweight dames

Roosevelt's Wife Asks for Divorce

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Rep. James Roosevelt's wife, who accused him of infidelities with 12 women during their 12 years of marriage, has asked the Superior Court for a final decree of divorce.

An attorney representing Mrs. Roosevelt filed the petition yesterday. Today a lawyer for the late President's eldest son was scheduled to file a similar petition in Los Angeles Superior Court.

Technically the Roosevelts still are married until a judge signs one of the petitions. Mrs. Roosevelt was granted an interlocutory decree June 22, 1955.

Both were eligible to apply for a final decree a year and a day later. With normal court closure last Saturday, yesterday was the first opportunity.

The California Democratic lawmaker has declined comment on reports that he might marry his secretary, Mrs. Gladys Irene Owens.

In the sensational domestic litigation, Roosevelt filed a separate maintenance suit in January, 1954. A few days later his wife filed a separate maintenance suit of her own, naming three women as co-respondents. Included as part of her complaint was a photostatic copy of a typewriter letter to his wife, signed by Roosevelt and confessing infidelities with nine other women.

Roosevelt emphatically denied misconduct with all 12 women.

He said he signed the February 1945 letter under compulsion and in a desire to avoid adding to the burdens of his father, the late F. D. R.

Father of Six Is Killed by Police

PICHLAD, Kan. (AP) — A father of six children, described by officers as distraught over his wife's divorce action, was shot and killed in a gun battle with police last night.

The dead man was Fred Heberling, 50, owner of a cafe.

Mrs. Heberling had filed suit for divorce and won a court order restraining him from bothering either.

The shooting took place inside the cafe, where deputies had gone to investigate reports Heberling was threatening to shoot any officer on sight.

It could turn out to be a real exciting new craze for the American teen-ager. It might even take his mind off rock 'n' roll for a change—and who's against that?
